From Saturday Auguſt 18. to Tueſday Auguſt 21. 1744.

Stockholm, Auguſt 3.

LATE on Tueſday Evening laſt arrived an Expreſs from Carlſcrona, with an Account, that the Princeſs Ulrica of Pruſſia had ſafely landed there on Saturday the 28th of laſt Month. Preparations are now making, with the greateſt Diligence, for celebrating the Nuptials of her Royal Highneſs and the Prince Succeſſor at Droningholm; but the Day is not yet fixed. On Wedneſday laſt his Swediſh Majeſty came back to Carlsberg from Ekelſund. This Morning died here M. Drake, the Preſident of the College of Commerce. As we have not heard any Thing of the Ruſſian Troops ſince they got to the Iſland of Aland, it is ſuppoſed they have made their Paſſage to Finland.

From the Sardinian Camp of Patcetto, Auguſt 7. at Five in the Evening.

The Peaſants continue harraſſing the Enemy upon the Eminencies of the Vallies of Grana and Mayra, and make Excurſions even to the great Road of Elva to Stura. Thoſe of Albaretto and Stroppo have carried off a ſmall Convoy of 23 Mules or Horſes; and as they are upon the Watch upon all Occaſions, the Enemy are obliged to eſcort every Thing, which fatigues them extremely. There has ſcarce a Day paſſed for ſome Time, in which the Peaſants have not made a Dozen Priſoners, not reckoning thoſe taken upon the Eminencies of Demont. M. de la Mina, at the Head of a Dozen Companies of Grenadiers, and eight Piquets, marched upon the 4th by the Mountain of Teſteona towards the Eminencies of the Hill of Vaudier, in order to drive our Peaſants from that Poſt, who ſupported the Attack two Hours. The Enemy had one Captain of Grenadiers, one Lieutenant, and eight Men killed, and 20 wounded, and retired to their Camp. M. Brondel, at the Head of 300 regular Troops, and the Peaſants, whoſe Number increaſes every Day, poſſeſſes theſe Eminencies, which appear however to be very neceſſary to the Enemy, in order for their inveſting the Place. Thoſe of Valoira and the Eminencies of Grana, where the Marquis of Gares is arrived with his Detachment, continually harraſs the Enemy, who as yet have not dared to advance ſo far as Cornalé. M. Viallet writes Word, that 30 Pieces of great Cannon, and 12 Mortars, are arrived at Iſon, and the great Duſt, which, he ſays, he ſaw, makes him imagine, that they are advanced farther. They have begun to throw up Ground, and to form a Kind of Intrenchment in the Fields, which are below Chapelletes. M. Brondel writes, that he ſees a great Smoak in the Village of Demont, where, without doubt, the Magazines of Hay have been ſet on Fire; and as he heard the Cannon of the Place firing, it is thought that M. Viallet has played them upon the Enemy, upon their attempting to ſave thoſe Magazines. The Marquis of Lucey is this Moment arrived, and reports, that upon the 5th M. Metral de Guibert, and M. Roſier d'Audibert, having deſcended by the Col de la Croix, and having left at that of Bries 300 Vaudois to cover their Retreat, marched directly to the Village of Eguille, in the Valley of Queiras, where they had Advice that ſome of the Enemy were, without knowing their Number. They placed themſelves, one on the Right and the other on the Left of the Village, with 150 Vaudois each; from whence they made a great Fire upon the Church-yard and the Steeple, where the Enemy were, whilſt the Marquis de Lucey advanced through the Middle of the Village directly to the Church-yard, at the Head of 100 Vaudois and 10 inferior Officers. After having fired about an Hour, and loſt two of the Vaudois, a Captain of the Regiment of Carcaſſone, his Lieutenant, and 50 Soldiers, ſurrendred Priſoners of War. They were conducted to the Valley of St. Martin. Advice is juſt received by the Marquis Pallavicini, that the Marquis de Gares's Poſt is attacked, and that the Enemy ſeem determined to force the Eminencies of the Right and Left of Demont. They are erecting Bomb Batteries.

Genoa, Auguſt 8, N. S. We hear from Naples, that a large Shebeck was arrived there with two hundred Walloon Guards, and that thirty other Veſſels were expected from Barcelona and Majorca, who all together are to carry Three thouſand five hundred Men. It was alſo ſaid, that upon the Arrival of this Shebeck at Naples, the King immediately contracted for Five hundred Horſes, there being that Number of Dragoons expected in the above Convoy; but there being many different Accounts of this Imbarkation, we wait for a further Confirmation of it. There is Advice from Toulon, that there were nineteen French and four Spaniſh Ships in the Bay, that nine of the former, and the Spaniſh Ships, were in the grand Road and ready to ſail, as was ſuppoſed, to Carthagena: That five French Ships were Careening all at once, on which they worked Day and Night; and that a new Eighty four Gun Ship was alſo ready. They have raiſed two new Batteries at the Entrance into Toulon, and were fortifying the whole Length of the Coaſt, to prevent his Britannick Majeſty's Ships from Landing or being ſupplied with Water. This Republick is going to form a Camp of about twelve thouſand regular Troops, under the Command of two Brigadiers,

(Price Two-Pence.)

Brigadiers, between Gavi and Novi, juſt upon the Confines of his Sardinian Majeſty's Dominions in Lombardy.

Vienna, Aug. 12, N. S. The firſt Column of the Troops under General Bathiani, conſiſting of 6000 Men, has entred Bohemia, under the Command of General Feſtetitz, and the reſt are following: The Whole amount to 32000 Men. There are already in Bohemia 4600 Men, Ogilvie and Schulembourg's Regiments. Count Eſterhaſi himſelf heads the Hungarian Inſurgents in the Field, and as his Credit among them is very great, they will follow him in great Numbers. They are all ready, having been preparing, in Caſe of Need, for ſeveral Months paſt. Forty Thouſand are kept conſtantly on Foot. The People in Tranſilvania have alſo offered their Service.

Metz, Auguſt 19, N. S. His Majeſty has been ſo very ill of a Fever, attended with a Diſorder in his Bowels, and a Pain in his Head, ſince his Arrival here, that upon the 15th his Death was expected, and he received Extreme Unction. However, that Afternoon, upon the Application of more forcible Medicines, about Five o'Clock his Illneſs abated, and he has ever ſince been upon the mending Hand, and at preſent it is ſaid that he is out of Danger. The Queen and moſt of the Princes of the Blood were ſent for hither upon the Occaſion, and, according to all Appearance, the Court will not be able to leave this Town before September. We hear that Prince Charles of Lorraine has juſt made a Motion towards the Rhine, and the French Army under the Marſhal Noailles and Coigni, together with the Imperialiſts under Count Seckendorf, were moving towards him; ſo that we ſhall be every Moment expecting an Account of a Battle.

Bruſſels, Aug. 24, N. S. We hear that the Count de Saxe has endeavoured a ſecond Time to ſurprize Oudenarde, but without Succeſs; upon which the Duke de Aremberg has ordered that Garriſon to be reinforced by two Battalions, and a ſmall Party of Horſe, the better to ſecure the Place againſt a future Attempt. The Army of the Allies is in Poſſeſſion of Orchies, and the Engineers are employ'd in ſtrengthening that Place, where was found a Magazine of Hay. According to the laſt Letters from Paris, the French King was thought to be out of Danger.

Bruſſels, Aug. 27, N. S. Letters from Turin of the 8th Inſtant, N. S. mention, that the King of Sardinia intended to abandon Demont, but that his Majeſty had made ſuch Diſpoſitions for oppoſing the Enemy in other Parts of the Country, that in all Probability they would not be able to effectuate any Thing of Importance before the falling of the Snow, which would oblige them to quit their Conqueſts and return into France. General Prætorius is juſt arrived here from the Army.

Hague, Auguſt 25. By the laſt Advices from Metz, the French King was thought to be out of Danger. By Advices of the 16th from Prince Charles's Army, a conſiderable Part of the French Reinforcements had juſt joined Marſhal Coigni, who had ſent a Detachment over the Rhine to deſtroy, as the Prince had another to cover, the Auſtrian Magazines on that Side of the River.

Topſham, Auguſt 18, 1744.

We have this Morning received a certain Account, by an Officer belonging to the Saltaſh Privateer, Capt. Huddy, that the ſaid Privateer is come into Torbay from a Cruize of two Months, and has brought in with her a Prize which ſhe had taken, being a Ship of near 600 Tons from Guinea; ſhe hath 16 Carriage and 8 Swivel Guns, 51 Men; her Loading is 450 Tons of Gum, and other valuable Things, and computed to be worth 100,000 l. Sterling. The Capt. of the Guinea Ship was killed in the Action, which held near five Hours.

Extract of a Letter to the Poſtmaſter General from the Poſtmaſter of Briſtol, dated 20 Aug. 1744.

The Prince Charles Privateer is this Morning arrived with two Prizes, that came from Miſſiſippi, and ſaid to be of conſiderable Value. There are likewiſe two more brought in this Morning by the Mediterranean and Queen of Hungary Privateers, one from St. Domingo, and the other from Greenland, who had taken three Whales.

General Poſt-Office, London, July 25, 1744.
